Monthly Message from the TBS VP

It was a pleasure to welcome a longtime friend of TBS to our monthly meeting in November. Arthur Joura took his now traditional trip to the Piedmont from Asheville to provide wonderful presentation to the attendees. Thank you, Arthur, for your insights and for your continued support of TBS through the years.

As I write this, the 2018 Winter Silhouette has taken place and it has been a resounding success. Approximately 70 exceptional trees from places as far away as Florida and New York graced the display area of the high class venue in Kannapolis, NC. A large number of vendor offered their wares to hundreds of eager visitors. I left the exhibit with a nice loot of 5 quality containers myself! TBS was very well represented and did not miss the opportunity to bring home another prize:

Ed Lauer's elegant chokeberry won the prize for Best Fruiting Bonsai!

What is December, for if not for the TBS Winter Gala and Auction?

Assuming the weather doesn't wreak havoc with our plans, we are meeting for our annual Winter Gala and Auction at the site of our regular meeting: Wake County Cooperative Extension, 4001 Cary Dr, Raleigh, NC 27610. However, be aware that the exact room for the Winter Gala is different; we will be meeting in the Auditorium. We will provide sufficient signage for all of you to get to the right room.

If you are not a new member, please notice that we are NOT going to be in the building used for past auctions (The Commons), but rather in the building of our regular meetings. We ask that you bring two things to the meeting: 1) a dish to share and 2) one or more items for the auction. Please remember that our two share and 2) one or more items for the auction. Please remember that our two auctions are TBS's primary source of operating income. Your generous donation of items (trees, containers, supplies, tools, books, etc..) enable us to offer the excellent programs we are well known for in the bonsai community. It goes without saying that bringing your checkbook would also be a very good idea..;) A word to the wise: the tree in the middle of the picture belongs to TBS and will be auctioned off during the meeting.

A photograph of a bonsai tree with a gnarled, light-colored trunk and branches. The tree is covered in numerous small, bright red, round fruits, possibly cherry or plum. The background is solid black, making the tree and its fruit stand out prominently.
